CAROLINA IMPROV COMPANY ANNOUNCES IMPROV COMEDY SHOWS AT BAREFOOT RESORT EVERY SUNDAY THIS SUMMER

The newly formed Barefoot Improvisers, presented by Carolina Improv Company, will perform Sundays at 4:30pm in the DockSider's Grille at Barefoot Resort

June 30, 2009, Myrtle Beach, S.C. — For a limited time residents and tourists can experience free improv comedy shows when Carolina Improv Company presents the Barefoot Improvisers this summer at Barefoot Resort. Performing on Sundays at 4:30pm through September 6, the Barefoot Improvisers will entertain guests while they dine in the DockSider's Grille. Performances start July 5 and end on September 6. There is no show on July 19 at Barefoot Resort due to two free shows on July 19 at 3:30pm and 5:00pm at the Elks Lodge in Myrtle Beach. Similar to a murder mystery production, performers will interact with the guests and will also elicit suggestions from the guests to create spontaneous, unscripted comedy scenes on the spot, similar to the television show "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" The entertainment is free and happy hour specials include half-price appetizers. Seating is first come, first seated in the restaurant. Performers are Grand Strand residents and recent graduates of improv classes at Carolina Improv Company. New classes start July 8. For more information about upcoming improv shows and classes, visit www.carolinaimprov.com or call 1-843-597-6393 (843 required).

For those unfamiliar with the art of improv, the quickest way to explain it is to equate to the television show "Whose Line Is It Anyway?" in which actors instantly invent unrehearsed skits, games or songs, relying only on their quick wit and improvisational skills. Improv classes are not just for actors because they provide the tools for anyone interested in learning how to think quick on their feet, be spontaneous, be more creative, become more flexible and much more.

About Carolina Improv Company

In need for a refresher improv class to re-energize her, Gina Trimarco searched and searched for a place to take classes. When she discovered that improv did not exist in Myrtle Beach, someone suggested that she teach classes instead and Carolina Improv Company (CIC) was born in September 2008. Originally from Chicago, Trimarco studied improv at the famed Second City while her career in entertainment marketing blossomed. CIC offers improv classes to adults and teambuilding and public speaking training to groups and organizations to improve their abilities to connect with others, solve unexpected problems in the moment, and create better ways of working. Improvisational skills are vital in business, especially in the age of virtual teams and lightning fast change. Improvisers can create something out of nothing, which is important for creating new ideas, fostering relationships and adjusting to change. These skills can apply to all industries and job categories and is especially perfect for anyone in customer service or leadership positions. In the future CIC will offer improv comedy shows to locals and tourists. For more information, visit www.carolinaimprov.com or call 1.843.597.6393.
